COPIES OF LETTERS FROM JAMES ELLIOT.

(No. 1.)

Waſhington, Jan. 25, 1804.

SIR,

Your letter is received. As I am always willing to receive good advice, your obſervation on my ſtyle of ſpeaking are not unacceptable; but in my political conduct I muſt be dictated by my conſcience alone.

I have no idea that my conſtituents wiſh to be repreſented by a humble ſlave of the proud, paſſionate, and ariſtocratic Mr. Randolph, or a fellow laborer of thoſe whoſe labors tend to diſorganize the conſtitution and place the ſmall ſtates at the feet of the large ones, and both large and ſmall at the feet of Virginia. On this ſubject I believe there is a great union of ſentiment among the Vermont delegation, both ſenators, and repreſentatives, at any rate I believe I know the ſentiments and feelings of all but judge Olin. I wiſh this communicated to thoſe who accuſe me of "ſtraining at a gnat and ſwallowing a camel." If there be any baſe enough to accuſe me of "a direliction of principle, and a temporizing policy for the ſake of popularity," I ought in juſtice to myſelf to offer them nothing but the homage of my high contempt. But I have the "vanity" to add the remark that every action of my life contradicts the unmanly inſinuation. Beſides, let me enquire what popularity I had in view, it was ſuppoſed in oppoſing a meaſure almoſt univerſally popular. But I cannot think any man has accuſed me of political diſhoneſty. Your correſpondence will at all times be agreeable, and believe me, Sir, very reſpectfully,

Your moſt obedient ſervant,

JAMES ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

(No. 2.)

Waſhington, Feb. 13, 1804.

DEAR SIR,

Yours of the 3d inſtant is received. On the ſubject of the American "Chancellor of the Exchequer," the peculiar favorite of the preſident and heads of department, and oſtenſible leader of the republicans in congreſs, you ſhall have ample ſatisfaction.

It is now almoſt the unanimous voice of the northern republicans that Virginia and Mr. Randolph are attempting to rule the houſe of repreſentatives and the nation by violence. On the ſubject of the extinguiſhment of the ſtate balances, every member from New-England, judge Olin excepted, unite in oppoſition to the meaſure. On moſt queſtions the northern repreſentatives, republicans and federaliſts, vote together. Judge Olin with us frequently, in oppoſition to the ſalary bill for inſtance. The conſequence of this ſchiſm among republicans, is, that meaſures are frequently carried againſt the prime miniſter by ſmall majorities, on all which occaſions, and many others, he abuſes the ſpeaker and the houſe in a moſt infamous manner. In many of his ſpeeches he tells the houſe their proceedings are diſorderly. The other day he told the houſe they were under the influence of Mr. R. Griſwold and uſed much indecent language with reſpect to a coalition between Mr. Griſwould and Mr. Lyon, whom he repreſented as the leader of the party oppoſed to himſelf. A perſonal rencounter of a ſerious nature has taken place between Mr. R. and Mr. Alſton, which will probably end in a duel; there muſt alſo be a duel between him and Mr. Hampton, whom he abuſed in debate. Mr. R. is famous in that way, and it is ſaid performed deeds of fatal proweſs before he came to congreſs. Anonymous letters replete with invective and threats are delivered to the republican members. I have received one in the ſtyle of an aſſaſſin, and it is evidently in the hand writing of Mr. R. very aukwardly diſguiſed. I every day declare it to be of his production, and have demanded of him an explanation, which if he does not give, I ſhall make a ſtatement of the buſineſs to the houſe, and perhaps move his expulſion. I am in fear of ———, I dare not ſay what——you will hear more ſoon.

Virginia is undoubtedly purely republican. My God! What republicaniſm! Nearly one half of the people in a ſtate of menial and four fifths of the remainder in civil ſlavery! One man in four or five an elector. My blood chills—I tremble for my country! I know—Yes—know that deep laid plans exiſt againſt the conſtitution of the union.

I care not how far this information is diffuſed if it is kept out of the newspapers. We have ſixty or ſeventy orders of the day, and ſcarcely a queſtion is taken without ſeveral day's debate. If the ſeſſion be not made permanent, it will not be that buſineſs is wanting.

Your ſincere friend,

JAMES ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

(No. 3.)

Waſhington, Feb. 15, 1805.

DEAR SIR,

Meſſrs. Randolph and Alſton have been arreſted and bound to keep the peace within this diſtrict, the injury Mr. Alſton received, was, of ſo attrocious a nature, that there muſt be a duel. Mr. Hampton averſe to diſturbing the councils of the nation, will it is ſaid ſuſpend his challenge to the end of the ſeſſion. The difficulty between Mr. Randolph and myſelf has been accomodated by the intervention of Meſſrs. Bryan and Nicholſon, Mr. R. having denied any knowledge of the letter in queſtion.

Yours,

JAMES ELLIOT.

(No. 4.)

Waſhington, Feb. 27, 1805.

SIR,

I encloſe you a ſet of revolutionary reſolutions by Mr. R. the great inquiſitor and cenſor, and not only of the judicial department, but of the ſtate governments. In the opinion of many republicans, they tend to the deſtruction of ſtate ſovereignties.

The great principle involved in theſe reſolutions, has already been decided againſt Mr. R. by 62 votes to 56. But he is too good a republican to ſubmit to majority. Only one member from New England votes with him on the queſtion.

Yours,

J. ELLIOT.

P. S. Theſe reſolutions involve alſo an open violation of the plighted faith of the nation—by the convention between the United States and Georgia, by which we became poſſeſſed of the Miſſiſſippi territory, the United States are pledged to appropriate 5 millions of acres to ſatisfy the very claims which Mr. R. ſays we muſt reſolve not to ſatisfy.

(No. 5.)

Waſhington, March 9, 1805.

SIR,

The bill for ſatisfying the Georgia claims has paſſed in committee of the whole by a majority of eleven, and the ſubſtance of this revolutionary reſolution, was rejected in the ſame committee, by the ſame majority. The reſolutions are ſtill before the houſe, but I ſhall this day move their poſtponement or total rejection. Mr. R. is more furious than ever, and has poured the full vial of his wrath upon col. Lyon and myſelf—he calls us "the Bear of the arctic and Lion of the torrid zone." He threatens to reſign the dictatorſhip. Several alterations which to my knowledge have been projected in the conſtitution, calculated to deſtroy the remaining weight of the ſmall ſtates, will now be kept for a ſeaſon.

From the preſent appearances I ſhall not vote for the impeachment of judge Chaſe—but we have not all the teſtimony. I am a friend to the independence of the judges, but a greater friend to the rights of the people.

Yours,

JAS. ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

(No. 6.)

Waſhington, March 12, 1804.

SIR,

The revolutionary reſolutions have been poſtponed to the next ſeſſion, except the firſt and ſecond which were abſtract propoſitions. Col. Lyon created much admiration by a very able ſpeech againſt the reſolutions.

Yours,

JAMES ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

(No. 7.)

Waſhington, March 14, 1805.

SIR,

I imagine that the republicans in your quarter will not find much fault with my ſpeech in favor of the impeachment of judge Chaſe. I ſhall be obliged, however, to vote in the negative ultimately as the queſtion will be taken upon ſeveral articles to all of which but one—I am oppoſed.

If I have ſometimes "failed in arrangements," it may be imputed to this, that contrary to the practice of all other ſpeakers, I always truſt for manner as well as matter, to my extemporaneous powers. I have never uſed a ſingle note, or commit to paper a ſingle word of my ſpeeches before delivery.

Yours,

JAMES ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

(No. 8.)

Waſhington, March 17, 1805.

DEAR SIR,

Of col. Lyon's 'plans' I know nothing—I will tell you the truth, but not the whole truth about certain "deſigns againſt the conſtitution." Perhaps it is wrong to call them deſigns; moſt of thoſe who entertain thoſe views are honeſt; they believe we have reached the age of political perfectability.

1. To carry the election of preſident to the people. How will this effect the ſmall ſtates? Take Vermont and Pennſylvania; Vermont gives ſix electoral votes; Pennſylvania 20. Carry the election to the people, and the weight of Vermont, relatively to Pennſylvania, is but a fraction more than as 4 to 18.

2. Reduce the period for which ſenators are elected to two years. How will this effect the ſmall ſtates? It will render the ſenators leſs independent, and in time the mere tools of the large ſtates. Something of this kind is already diſcovered. A republican of diſtinction has been heard to ſay, that Virginia might as well ſend four ſenators and Rhode Iſland none as for each to ſend two.

3. Limit the office of a judge to five years. This needs no comment.

I ſhall always be devoted to the cauſe of liberty; but I am decidedly of opinion, that the union of the vaſt territory and heterogeneous population of our country cannot be preſerved under a ſyſtem leſs energetic than the preſent conſtitution. The moment when we have added a world to our empire is a very improper one to ſeize for the purpoſe of rendering government almoſt a perfect democracy. Yet ſuch views are entertained by our ſouthern and Penſylvania brethren.

The nomination of governor Clinton was made in ſecret conclave by four or five members a great while ago, it is a part of the well known Virginia plan to give us a preſident from that ſtate.

Colonel Burr has many reſpectable friends in both houſes, but it was neceſſary to ſet him aſide for the preſent. Virginia commanded and it was done.

I am ſir,

very reſpectfully your friend and humble ſervant,

JAS. ELLIOT.

Mr. ———.

P. S. Both judge Olin and myſelf have experienced much difficulty in voting for the impeachment of judge Chaſe. We ſhall probably be obliged to vote againſt the articles, as they will charge him with ten times too much.

J. L.

(No. 9.)

Waſhington, March 19, 1804.

SIR,

In my laſt I intimated that the Rhode-Iſland ſenators, were conſidered as devoted to the views of Virginia. I meant no imputation on the character of thoſe gentlemen, they are upright: and their co-incidence with Virginia perhaps merely accidental.

It is certain however there are many modes of republican influence and intrigue, of which none but thoſe who have like us "a view of the whole ground" can form an adequate idea.

Yours,

JAS. ELLIOT.

(No. 10.)

Waſhington, Nov. 15, 1804.

SIR—Your notice of the election of electors was very acceptable.——Mr Noyes is indebted to my activity and influence in Gilford, for his elevation to public life, and he knows it very well. Mr. Shepenſon is ſimilarly circumſtanced. Theſe gentlemen are among my bittereſt perſecutors. "Father forgive them, forgive them, for they know not what they do." They are poor and want offices. I am poor alſo, but I will never ſacrifice either principle or friends for the "loaves and fiſhes." I ſhall live and die an undeviating friend to the rights of mankind. Ingratitude may effect my ſenſibility, but it cannot make me a villain.

Your friend and humble ſervant,

JAMES ELLIOT.

Waſhington February 3, 1805.

DEAR SIR,

Again is the union of honeſt men triumphant. The acquital of the ſupreme court of Pennſylvania is the ſure harbinger of the downfall of Duane, and jacobiniſm in that ſtate.—Had the judges been condemned articles of impeachment againſt governor M'Kean himſelf were already cut and dried for immediate uſe.

After the moſt ſtrong and diſgraceful congreſſional debate ever known, of 4 days duration on the Georgia claims, The friends of correct principles have prevailed by a ſmall majority in the fulleſt houſe we have had this ſeaſon; ayes 63, noes 58. Mr. Randolph has delivered ſeveral phillippies more violent than thoſe of Robeſpierre in the bloody time of France. In return he has been called by republican ſpeakers, an ape, a monkey, a ſlanderer, a calumniator, a madman, an ambitious popular leader, a deſpotic demagogue, tyrant, &c. &c. He has accuſed the poaſt maſter general of crimes and miſdemeanors, and that officer has demanded an enquiry into his conduct. Colonel Lyon observed in his speech that he was grateful to his God for having given him the face of man and not that of an ape or monkey. DEAR SIR,

We have this moment killed Duane. We have taken his exclusive right as printer and stationer to the government, and decreed it to the lowest bidder, whatever may be his politics. Every New England member voted for the resolution.

A new daily moderate republican paper is soon to commence at Baltimore. There are already between six and seven hundred subscribers, the two first of whom are, Thomas Jefferson & Robert Smith.

Ever yours,
JAMES ELLIOT.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7.

The admirers of Useful Invention will, during the present week, have an opportunity of indulging themselves with a view of Deneale's Patent Threshing Machine The hon. judge Washington has erected one of those highly useful and curious machines on his Union Farm at Mount Vernon, and is now engaged in threshing his present year's crop of wheat. This being an invention of the most interesting kind to farmers, all those who have entertain doubts of its operation can be best satisfied by their own view of the machine while at work, where they will have an opportunity of examining the effect with which it is done, and whether it is equal to the object for which it was invented.

The letters of the hon. JAMES ELLIOT, member of congress, which appear in this day's Gazette, will be read with unusually avidity. They are copied from the Aurora, the editor of which has by some means, not less honest, we'll warrant, than his robbery of the treasury office, broken into the recess of private confidence, and laid them before the world, as evidence of Mr. Elliot's apostacy—though, with any other man than a Duane, they would be proof irrefragable of his political integrity and independence.—They tell some very pretty anecdotes of our mild, forbearing, unaffuming republicans: those little deities, who, in the reign of phrenzy, had so much of the milk of human kindness about them, and were to do such great things for the dear people, if once they could oust old George Washington, and the aristocrats!

[Fed. Gaz.]

The British government brig Busy was at St. Johns when the Camper. down, which arrived yesterday, sailed. The capt. and other officers had made themselves obnoxious by the improper measures they had taken in impressing men. It was ascertained they had no right to take men in the city—whereupon upwards of a hundred of the citizens assembled and drove the press gang to their boats. The collector of St. Johns refused to take any charge of the Marblehead vessel detained by the Busy, and she was sent to Halifax. [Palladium.]

By proclamation of governor Cameron of New-Providence, permission is extended for three months from the 12th of July, to neutrals bringing such articles as are specified in the proclamation—viz. corn, all sorts of grain, pulse, flour, bread, rice, and every species of salted provisions, cattle and live stock of all kinds, and all sorts of lumber. This provision extends to the ports of Nassau, Exuma, Turks Island, St. George, and Crooked Island.

SPANISH AFFAIRS.

The present aspect of our relations with Spain is such as to warrant the expectation of an immediate rupture. The arrival of this crisis is no matter of astonishment: It is only to be wondered, by what ingenious humility the event has been deferred to this period. Since the occlusion of the port of New Orleans (which was manifestly an act of studied insult and outrage) down to the present moment, the catalogue of Spanish wrongs has been increasing in number and magnitude. Forbearance on our part, has only provoked reiterated injury; and even when our government had assumed a few sparks of energy, they have produced from a corrupt enemy, nothing but prevarication and subterfuge. Washington and Madrid have alike witnessed the humiliation of a nation professing to possess all the prerogatives of independence. On the ocean, in our rivers, and in our harbours, our citizens and our laws have been derided and abused. Rights have been refused, indemnity for wrongs have been denied; our foreign agents have been either totally neglected or openly insulted; unjust rigors and exactions have been imposed upon our commerce; and, as if the aggravation could not be too henious, the honor of the government has at last been violated by an offensive attack on its regular armed force! Under this accumulation of injuries, to be quiescent, would be cowardice; while to act, would be nothing more than the dictate of ordinary feeling.

This state of things is manifestly the effects of the crooked policy of our own administration. In order to avoid war Washington advised his countrymen always to be prepared for it. But what has been the practice of Mr. Jefferson? Has he, in his foreign transactions, impressed the nations of Europe with a complete idea of our ability to vindicate the national honor? or, has he not rather thrown that honor on the mercy of powers with whom he has negociated? Even Spain, the humblest and most pusilanimous nation on the globe, has been truckled to?—And she, as it were, acquiring spirit from our evidence of the want of it, has poured out injury and insult with no unsparing hand.

War, it cannot be denied in its best shape, is an evil to any nation. Under our present circumstances, however, there are many considerations to diminish its inconveniencies.——Our country throughout its whole extent is agitated by civil contentions, by state jealousies, and local animosities. Indeed these passions have proceeded to so deplorable a height as almost to menace the federal compact with dissolution. Hence it is that at such a crisis, we conceive a foreign point of action for the feellings and energies of our citizens, might possibly tranquilize our domestic tumults, and consolidate into one uniform system, the principles and views of good men of all parties. We are indeed in want of some external pressure to force us to a proper estimate of our real situation and resources.

With respect to the precise state of our concerns with Spain, we only learn that our government has proceeded so far as to intimate that her foreign agents here might depart at pleasure.

From the GAZETTE, and DAILY ADVERTISER.

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE INFIDEL.

"I trouble not myself about the manner of my future exittence. I content myself with believing, even to positive conviction, that the power that gave me existence is able to continue it in any form and manner he pleases either with or without this body; and it appears more probable to me that I shall continue to exist hereafter, than that I should have had existence as I now have before that existence began."

T. PAINE.

"I look beyond the bounds of human life for the reward of our sacrifices and the felicity of our re-union: how? in what manner? I am so ignorant, I only feel that it ought to be so."

MADAM ROLAND.

"An immortal renown is the most powerful of death-bed consolations." BUFFOON.

To answer such flimsy attacks as these upon the Christian faith, by a regular train of argument, would be to pay an extravagant compliment to the vanity and arrogance of human folly; a late writer has done it better in the beautiful story of La Roche; and, perhaps, the following fragment will be found calculated to have a similar effect.

Alas my Jane!

"He was delighted with the work of his own hands; he saw it beautiful. He made it good, and took it to himself."

I had a daughter sweetly fair
With hazle eye, and auburn hair;
A dimple too, in either cheek,
And cherry lips; she could not speak
She was so young; yet she could look
Her meaning just as if she'd spoke.
Oft in her eyes I us'd to gaze,
Delighted with her infant ways,
And play'd, and look'd, and play'd again;
So watchful never to give pain,
That she was pleas'd and seldom cry'd
Except when something was deny'd,
Which sterner duty ordered to.
And this, forsooth, would cause her woe;
But then it went so soon away,
That we did little else but play:
She just could run; I think I see
Her infant form approaching me,
A bunch of flowers in either hand,
Like little sylph from fairy land:
She rooted was within her heart,
So that I thought I could not part
From little Jane, I lov'd her so;
But yet a journey I must go,
And leave my little girl behind
To nurse's care, it griev'd my mind,
For I had fears, foreboding fears,
Which forc'd away the silver tears,
And made me tremble; yes, and sigh,
Though I could give no reason why.
Oh! ye, who know a parent's cares,
Whose every wish some darling shares,
Though absent long, and far away,
You cling to that auspicious day,
When you again shall eager kiss
The sweet controller of your bliss.
And so did I; the day was come,
And I had fondly journey'd home:
Alas my Jane! she was not dead.
She still could lift her sickly head;
And still could smile; and still would try
To run, because papa was nigh;
And when she could not, seem's to say,
Papa be cheerful; perhaps I may;
Then turn, and give me such a look,
As all the parent in me shook;
I saw the struggles in her heart;
For well she knew that we must part.
* * * * * * * * * * * *
My little infant now is gone;
And why should I her loss bemoan?
Through glass of faith I plainly see
That she is happier far than me.
Her golden harp she tunes so sweet,
When sitting at her Saviour's feet,
That I could like to go and hear
I sometimes think; and shed a tear,
(No tear of sorrow but of joy)
The hymns that now my child employ:
Far from the wars which roar so near
She's landed safe; and free from fear:
No ruffian rude shall ever stain
The innocence of little Jane;
Angels do sit and listen, round
I make no doubt, on heavenly ground;
And every voice in chorus raise
To sing the lov'd redeemer's praise.
It was a beautiful flower. It was committed to my care; and I watched over it with the tenderest affection; but I loved it, perhaps, too well, and it was taken from me in mercy. This is nothing, certainly, to the reader; but the question which involves the moral, is of some import; has not the christian decidedly the advantage over the infidel, all things considered, even here?

FOR SALE,

Or to Let, for a Term of Years, or on Ground-Rent for ever,

Four valuable Lots, on the south side of King-street, between Fayette and Henry-streets; each lot fronting 20 feet on King-street, and running back 100 feet to a 12 feet alley.—The situation of this property is such (being in one of the most thriving parts of the town) as to make the possession of it very desirable to any person having money to purchase, more especially to dealers in country produce.

Also, for Sale,

A House and Lot, on the south side of King street, near Washington street, and opposite the store of Mr. James Bacon. This situation is equal to any in town for business.

Likewise to Let, for the term of ten years,

An half-acre Lot on Duke and Pitt streets, most eligibly situated for a Garden or Clover Lot, for which purpose only it would be rented. As manure has been thrown up in heaps upon it for several years the ground cannot but be as rich as could be wished. For terms apply to Mr. James Bacon, on King, near Washington street, or to the subscriber, at Notley Hall, opposite to Alexandria.

Highway Robbery!

1500 Dollars Reward.

YESTERDAY, about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, Mr. JOHN PETER, an officer of the Bank of COLUMBIA, was stopped on horseback on the road between this town and Alexandria, and within about two miles of the latter place, by some unknown villain, shot through the body with a pistol, and robbed of a sum of money in his possession belonging to this Institution, which he was taking to Alexandria, for the purpose of exchanging with the Bank there.

The whole sum taken amounted to Eighteen Thousand One Hundred and Fourteen Dollars and Sixty-five Cents, made up in packages—among which were

1 Post Note of the Bank of Virginia, for	800 dollars
1 ditto of the Bank of Alexandria for	500
1 ditto of the same for	500
1 ditto of the same for	450
1 ditto of the Bank of Potomac,	149 65 cents.

A Check of the Union Bank, on the Bank of Alexandria, drawn by R. Higinbotham, Cashier in favor of Greetham and Deveraux, by them endorsed and by Benjamin Stoddert, and C. Smith, Teller.

There were also a parcel of Post Notes of the Bank of Alexandria for 100 dollars and for 50 dollars each. The remainder was in current notes, principally of the banks of Alexandria and Potomac, and some few of the Bank of Virginia of different sizes and denominations.

As the ATTACK was SUDDEN, and the WOUND received of a nature to deprive Mr. Peter instantly of his senses, (although it is now hoped he will recover) the description obtained may not be very accurate. As far as we are informed, the man who perpetrated the act, is of middle stature, good countenance, and had a genteel appearance. He had on a dark blue or black coat, nankeen pantaloons, shoes, and a black hat; he was on FOOT and ALONE at the time, but may have had accomplices concealed, and will probably change his clothes.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be given to any person or persons, who will detect and bring to conviction the ROBBER: and ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS additional for the recovery of the whole of the money, or in proportion for any smaller sum recovered. Should there be accomplices, and one of them make a discovery, so that it leads to the conviction of the robber, or to the recovery of the money, he shall receive the ABOVE REWARD, and interest will be made to obtain his PARDON.

WILLIAM WHANN,
Cashier of the Bank of Columbia.

Polygraphick Painting.

THIS art, so long kept a secret and exclusively practised by the Polygraphick Society in London, is now in the possession of a Citizen of the United States lately arrived from Europe; who proposes to execute by subscription, two hundred copies from an original Allegorical Painting in the Shakespeare Gallery, New-York, by permission of the Proprietor: being

WASHINGTON,

Supported by LIBERTY, VIRTUE, and JUSTICE. VIRTUE is holding the emblem of the reward he merited. In the right of the piece, AMERICA, characterised as an Ab-original, is seated in a pensive posture, lamenting her loss. In the left is PAINTING turned to HISTORY, for a subject worthy of her art, who is supposed to answer,

"There is none more worthy than Washington."

The whole forming a more emblematical tribute to the memory of that great man, than has yet been offered to the public.

To those who esteem his public services and his private worth, and to the patrons of improvements in the fine arts, this work is dedicated. Such as are already furnished with different engravings on this subject, will, it is hoped, still find room for the present undertaking, when they consider, that it will be a PAINTING, and the design new, executed by a process, which renders it more durable than oil paintings—that it requires no glass—that while their prints contain, perhaps a faint resemblance only, this work affords a correct likeness, with the addition of six beautiful allegorical figures.—The price also is reduced so as to leave, comparative merits, no object.

Subscriptions, at Eight Dollars each, payable on delivery, (which is little more than the price of an engraving of the same size) are received by Conrad & Co. Bookfellers, Philadelphia; Robert Gray, Alexandria; Rapine, Conrad and Co. Capitol-hill City of Washington; and generally by Bookfellers throughout the Union; who will please to return their Subscription papers to Conrad and Co. Philadelphia, previous to the first of November next, when the work will be ready for delivery.

Frames will be procured, of any pattern, if required on the most moderate terms.

IT IS ALSO PROPOSED TO EXECUTE A

PORTRAITS

Of Mr. and Mrs. Washington,

On a smaller scale, 15 inches by 12; executed by the same process, and will be ready for delivery at the same time, for subscriptions of Four Dollars and Fifty Cents each, including a Gilt Frame. It is a principal aim of this work, to produce the most correct likenesses of this amiable couple.

One of the Paintings is now to be seen at Mr. Gadsby's Hotel, for a few days, who will receive subscriptions. As this copy is ordered to be sent to Richmond soon, another will be forwarded, if subscribers offer, to Robert Gray's, King street Alexandria, with whom subscribers may also enter their names.

☞ The Artist presumes that the secret art of Polygraphick Painting is known only to himself in the U. States; having travelled from the Carolinas to Massachusetts without finding a master of it. By this art, original paintings may be multiplied, so as to render it difficult to point out the difference. The Polygraphick picture, of the two, when compared together, is the most brilliant, and the nature of the process cannot fail rendering it more durable. In fine the whole is so exact and beautiful a copy, that the mind is lost in conjecture as to the method in which it is executed.

LAND for SALE.

I have about 1000 acres of Land, equal to any in the state of Kentucky, lying near Lexington, which I will sell a great bargain; the title indisputable, and an old military one. The terms of the sale will be made low, and a very lengthy credit given on a considerable part of the purchase money. Those gentlemen who intend to settle in the state, and who wish to purchase, may find it their interest to call upon me. I have the certificate of the late John Breckenridge, Esq. and others, shewing the title, situation, quality, quantity and value of this property.

FINLAY & COOK

INFORM THE PUBLIC,

That they have just received from London, via Baltimore, a small but well chosen collection of ENGRAVINGS, from the best European artists, and which they presume are superior to any now offered for sale in Alexandria:

Amongst these works are—

A sublime representation of the last Supper, from a painting by West, historical painter to the king of England.

The Redeemer, by Miller.

Saint John, by the Rev. W. Peters, Rector.

A full length Portrait of Lewis the sixteenth, in his robes of state, by Collet, painter to the unfortunate king.

The Ale-House Door and the Hay-Market, with a few more Fancy Pieces.

They have, likewise, procured from Philadelphia a few Copies of the

POLYGRAPHIC PAINTING,

Lately introduced in America.

They consist of a beautiful allegorical design to the memory of WASHINGTON, and Portraits of Mr. and Mrs. WASHINGTON.

BURNISH and OIL GILDING executed in the best manner; and Frames for Paintings Engravings, Needle-Work, &c. &c.

LANDS FOR RENT.

I will rent, of my estate in Caroline county, 5000 acres, for a term of 7 years. A considerable part of this land lies immediately on the Mattapony river, and will produce five barrels of corn per acre; it is generally in good condition for farming; the low grounds some of which are in meadow, and are perhaps equal to any in the state.

I will likewise Rent, for the same term,

Two thousand acres in the county of Orange, adjoining the Court-house. This land is well known for producing fine tobacco.—For further particulars enquire of
